The company started at No. 51 Beckman street, thence moved to the Tribune building, and afterward to No. 764 Broadway. A bindery was established first in Spruce street, which proved insufficient to meet the growing demand of trade, and an additional bindery was started in the fall of 1880 in Vesey street. A statement to stockholders on December 1, 1880, showing liabilities $230,572 03, of which $48,100 was capital stock paid up; bills and accounts payable, $110,702 66; undivided surplus, $71,709 07; assets, stock, furniture, machinery, bookplates, etc., net cash value, $213,-201; cash on hand, $2,012 25; bills receivable and accounts due the company, $4,269,-282 ble and accounts due the company, $4,269

The shortening of the week by one day and the near approach of the end of the year, produced its effect in the shrinkage of the volume of business throughout the entire country, and this has been very naturally reflected in the aggregate exchanges at the different clearing houses. Still, however, the grand total of the exchanges for the week, $1,152,251,222, only falls, a short ning the annual statement for 1831 expired before it was flied, and it is said that the trustees may be considered individually liable for the debts of the corporation.

In February circulars were widely distributed, offering the stock of the company at par, but with inducements in the way of lower rates to stockholders on books published. Brudstreet's report of April 20th said: "The want of adequate capital for so large a business has been frequently acknowledged by Mr. Alden, and many in the paper trade would be better satisfied if he would present a clear statement of affairs when seeking to buy on time. In the absence of such statement there is a feeling of uncertainty as to the ability of the Exchange to continue the business successfully and pay obligations in full, especially in the event of any unforseen depression in trade or withdrawal of its present patronage." The report of November 16th said: "On the 5th inst. there was a sale of miscellaneous publications of the Exchange at the Book Trade Selectores at which these distance benind the exhibit for the same cities last week, when the figures stood at $1,200,756,288, yet it shows a gain when compared with the figures of the previous week, $1,009,002,057. The per centage of decrease this week as compared with the corresponding week of last year, amounts to 14.4 per cent, against an increase of 5.9 per cent last week and a decrease of 5.9 per decrease of 5.9 per decrea to 14.4 per cent, against an increase of 5.9 per cent last week and a decrease of 5.9 per cent the previous week. In New York the per centage of decrease is 20.2 per cent, against an increase of 5.9 per cent last week and a loss of 12.5 per cent the previous week. This loss can be accounted for partity by the fact that the exchanges at New York for the five business days ending November 27, 1880, exceeded those of any other six consecutive days in the history of the New York clearing house, even during the week which included "Black Friday," in 1899, The New York exchanges at that time were only $989,274,472.

On the Str last, there was a sale of mis-cellaneous publications of the Exchange at the Book Trade Salesrooms, at which there were exposed for sale stock amounting, at list prices, to about $150,000; the sale real-ized about $74,000, and nearly all of this went, it is supposed, to Mr. George A. Leavitt for advances made. It is now said that their line of credit has been material-York, November 28.-The prizes tournament were presented to the victors ly lessened during the past six months, still in New York giving the Russian police active and invaluable assistance. tion to challenge Dion, the winner of the emblem, to play him a game of 600 points $120,000, and on the 12th inst., it is said theatre looks larger than the old one. It will seat no more persons (about twelve hundred) but the space for the seats is more ample and the galleries do not encroach so much upon the body of the house as in the old house. In other respects the new theatre will not be dissimilar from the old one in its chief features.

Naw York, November 28.—Forest Wein-muiler, the student who was shot Saturday night while in his room at the St. Omer Hotel with a college chum, is not expected to survive the night. We immuler stated to the coroner that he and his friend Hugh visited several saloons Saturday night and played pool in one of them; that neither was intoxicated when they returned to the hotel; he was playing a mouth organ when he was abot; had no pistol in his hand at the time; he had no reason to suspect that Hugh shot him. They were lying in the same bed at the time, both being undressed. He was perfectly satisfied that he did not shoot hims. They shorely hat he was anystery to him. Weinmuller saked that his mother, at Martinsburg, Maryland, be telegraphed.
